

Thobani Zungu

Thobani Zungu is a logistics entrepreneur based in Durban, South Africa, and the founder of NGI4 Xpress, a courier and B2B logistics company. With a hands-on background in transport operations, fleet coordination and supply chain management, Thobani saw the need for reliable, fast and customer-focused delivery services and decided to turn that insight into a business.

NGI4 Xpress provides express courier services, last-mile delivery and business logistics support for SMEs, e-commerce sellers, retailers, manufacturers and individual clients. The company is built on reliability, transparency and service excellence, helping clients grow while creating employment and skills development opportunities in the community.

Being part of the Metropolitan Collective Shapers programme has empowered Thobani to adopt a growth mindset, refine his systems and scale his business strategically. He has learned the importance of planning, structure and collaboration in building a sustainable enterprise.

Outside of work, Thobani is highly creative and enjoys exploring innovative ideas, building brand concepts and using technology to solve real-world problems. Guided by the mantra: "Start where you are, use what you have, and build toward where you want to be," he approaches every day with purpose, focus and determination.

NGI4 Xpress is more than a courier business. It is a trusted partner committed to service excellence, community impact and becoming a leading black-owned logistics brand in South Africa and beyond.
